Two Here Are Named Outstanding

Belle Glade has at least two outstanding young women. Mrs. Janis Flehs and Mrs. Donna Mae Armstrong, Chancin of Belle Glade and Martin, both of Clewiston, have been selected to appear in the 1967 edition of "Outstanding Young Woman of America."

"Outstanding Young Woman of America" is an annual biographical compilation of 6,000 outstanding young women between the ages of 21 and 35. These young women have distinguished themselves in civic and professional activities.

This annual compilation is a project of the Outstanding Americans Foundation, a non-profit foundation dedicated to recognizing and honoring outstanding Americans.

Selections for "Outstanding Young Women of America" are made by the Board of Advisors.

United States Senator Margaret Chase Smith, in her introductory message for last year's edition of Outstanding Young Women of America, said: "This book calls attention to the great capabilities of our young women and their ability to get things done."

Mrs. Esther Peterson, assistant Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, included in the 1967 edition "are in the tradition of women who combine the best virtues—virtue, intelligence and personal strength. These young women leaders are lighting the way for more and more truly developed women of tomorrow."

The publication was conceived by the leaders of the nation's women's clubs. They felt that young women who give their time for community projects should be recognized. The recognition of these outstanding women can serve to inspire others to give their time to additional civic responsibilities.

Local women's clubs throughout the country submit nominations for the book each year. A different group of outstanding women are chosen each year.

Guidelines for selection include unselfish service to others, charitable activities, community service, professional excellence, business advancement, and civic and professional recognition.

Father-Son Football Banquet Held Here Fri.

The annual Father-Son Football Banquet took place in the Belle Glade High School cafeteria last Friday.

After Reverend R. Y. Roseman offered a prayer, the men enjoyed a steak dinner furnished by the Athletic Council. Preceding the dinner, Coach Harry Davis, president of the Athletic Council, and Coach Bill Burke recognized all the guests present. Coach Bill Burke then introduced the guest speaker, Larry Wilson, coach at the University of Miami.

Coach Wilson entertained the audience with a few jokes, but then got down to his main theme. "Winning isn't everything, but wanting to win is." He stressed the important objective, principle, and character of any winning team, and how these values would be carried on through out life. He then concluded his speech with, "Go the Gators." (They got them 20-13.)

Betrayal of one's country is a common sin, but it is outstanding in values. Traitors possess such low values that they have no qualms about selling the secrets of their country to a foreign power. Traitors put as this do not serve to be citizens in any country.

Other evidence of weak values is illustrated by malicious gossip. People who are so callous as to betray a friend's trust and confidence, the privilege of friendship with others. People can often be hurt and embarrassed by thoughtless remarks and rumors.

A lack of proper values, breeds criminal delinquency. Generations should set good examples for the younger ones to follow. It is not entirely the fault of a young person who becomes a delinquent if he has seen only crime and violence, but the influence of acceptable values can be an invaluable contribution to the life of any individual.

Students Value Extra-Curricular Activities

By Kathy Morris

There are sixteen clubs in Belle Glade High and people are beginning to complain about students extra-curricular activities taking too much time from study.

What you learn in activities is a different kind of knowledge, but the fellowship and activities they plan for their group make them a club.

There are many categories of activities in which students may participate. Some may be involved in a classroom learning club like Diversified Cooperative Training. They earn credit and learn, but the fellowship and activities they plan for their group make them a club. Journalism class is a club in the sense it works together to put out the annual and newspaper. Much of the activities are student run and student's own time. In Glee Club talents are developed and though they have an hour in class to practice, a lot of time is spent after school and at night in preparing the special programs they present. The band also does an excellent job in preparing for the half-time show during football season, district and state contests, and special concerts during the year.

The Student Council provides leadership and promotes cooperation between the students and faculty. And Beta Club recognizes high scholastic average. During the year, Beta Club promotes school spirit. Art Club provides artistic help to all the other clubs and helps art students develop their abilities.

The Future Farmers and Future Homemakers also provide interested students with a chance for more experience in these fields through projects. The Future Farmers and Homemakers provide an insight into the teaching and medical careers.

Both Junior Civitan and Interact are service clubs for boys. The Library Club provides the extra help needed in the library. During the year has helped in promoting school spirit. The newest club on campus, the Radio Amateur's Club, gives boys who are interested in communications a chance to develop their hobbies and interests.

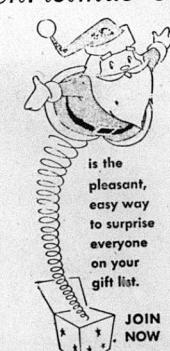

Sports are a very important part of life at Belle Glade High. Through them students learn more about getting along with each other in a real team spirit whether it be football, basketball, tennis, baseball, golf, or track.

These activities all give the students a chance to understand a particular subject better, to learn cooperation, to promote spirit, to develop lead-

BANK OF BELLE GLADE
BELLE GLADE, FLORIDA
Member Federal Deposit Insurance CorporationThis Is Week To Search For Values

By DICK HOOKER
The county-wide "Search For Values" is December 11-15. During this week it is hoped that each student will evaluate his life to find out exactly where his values are and where he is lacking in values.

Honesty is an important virtue and it should be considered during this week. An honest person is looked upon with great respect by his elders as well as his peers. Practically everyone is guilty of cheating in one way or another whether it is in school or at home. Sure it is so easy to look on someone else's paper during a test when you don't know the answer and the teacher is looking the other way. It is not being completely honest with the teacher, the other people in the class, or yourself if you do. What is a lie? Everyone tells one or two little gray lies now and then. It's not harmful to do so, you know? A lot adds a bit of dirt to the picture everyone has painted of you.

It used to be that there was no use for common or papers binds. A person to a certain agreement. A man's word was his honor — it was trusted and respected by all. One of the few places in America where a man can still keep his word is the United States Air Force Academy. There lying, stealing, and cheating are rejected by all, and those who come guilty of these big sins are sent up to their masters. The line coach from the University of Michigan said in a recent speech that you are a real punk if you fail to keep your word and are not punished by the actions of a select few. He also said that it takes someone with real courage and great morals to stand up for what is right when the group around him is doing wrong.

The object of this week of "Search For Values" is to help each person evaluate himself and find where his values lie. When you are searching check your honesty and see if it is lacking. When you say you'll do something, do you mean it and do you fulfill what you said? My parents send me the Star Magazine every week. You guys on the football team are doing great. Keep it up! Clark Black Was Future Homemaker's Guest

One of our Counselors, Mr. Clark Black, visited the members of the Future Homemakers of America (FHA) on Friday, Dec. 14. He asked a question and answer period. One question that had a great deal of comments was, "Do you think our morals are lowering?" This was discussed during the meeting.

The meeting began with the reciting of the FHA creed.

Afterwards, the president had a question and answer period. Mr. Black stated that he enjoyed himself and hopes to visit us in the organization again.

MAKES IT EASY & PLEASING TO GIVE

First Gun Given At Christmas
Is Responsibility

With Christmas just around the corner (and fast approaching), many parents or adults with young relatives may be considering presenting a gun to a young boy or girl.

The type of gun — BB, CO₂ pellet, smallbore rifle, shotgun or even a handgun — may vary, but it will be a thrilling moment in the life of a young boy or girl.

Like the birthday when a child becomes a teenager or meets the minimum age requirements for a driver's license or is considered no longer adolescent, the first gun represents an acknowledgement of their youngster's increased maturity.

The discovery of a gun under the Christmas tree will be a happy occasion, but it also is an occasion involving the moral responsibilities that such a gift demands of the recipient and especially of the giver.

The accountability of the giver — the parent, relative or friend — to the new gun owner is directly related to the gift itself. The youngster will wish to use his new gift as soon as possible. It is incumbent upon the giver to see that the first exposure of the gun by the excited and proud owner is conducted under safe conditions. The youngster must be able to handle the gun in such a manner that it does not constitute a potential hazard to himself or anyone.

All those who own guns and enjoy the many satisfactions derived from their recreational use have a stake in assisting new gun owners to become shooters in obtaining a proper knowledge of gun safety. Every accident with a firearm reflects on all shooting and every shooter. Firearms accidents are less than 1 in 100,000 according to the National Safety Council. Under proper supervision, firearms accidents are almost non-existent. Carelessness and ignorance are the basis for most accidents.

Accidents with guns are brought to the attention of the American public usually in an emotional and spectacular manner. Therefore, it is the responsibility of the shooting fraternity to promote safety, insure proper attitude and act always in a safe manner when a firearm is present. This is especially true when in the company of a new gun shooter or a new gun owner.

Shooting, unlike many other competitive sports, does not require great strength or special characteristics. One of its most appealing features is that all can participate and can compete on an equal basis. However, a necessary quality for all shooters is mental discipline, i. e., the ability to listen to the coach and the ability to practice and apply what has been taught. A positive mental approach to firearms safety is the most important lesson to be learned by all new gun owners and practiced by every gun owner.

The gift of a rifle at Christmas represents more than the mere presentation of an inanimate object to the recipient. It is giving a means to obtain great personal satisfaction and a sense of responsibility for one's self, excellence and an instrument of lifelong enjoyment. The giving of a Christmas gun entails the irrevocable moral responsibilities that go with such a gift. It is the duty of the donor to insure that the young recipient fully recognizes the obligations of his or her Christmas rifle. For further information, contact your local shooting club, dedicated local NRA affiliated club or write the National Rifle Association, 1600 Rhode Island Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., 20036.

THE QUALITY OF AMERICA

When the "Giant Check" reached a sum of 200 million in recent days, Americans understandably took pride in the growth, size and wealth of their nation. In population and territory, the United States exceeds the wildest dreams of any of its Founding Fathers.

But there is a danger in a people thinking about their country simply in quantitative terms. The most important of course, that once almost empty continent has become the home for so many people. Nowhere else on earth are there so many material rewards and so many opportunities for personal development.

Nevertheless, Americans have to be concerned about the qualitative aspects of the republic in the final third of the 20th century. They owe a duty to their forebears and to their descendants to ask about the quality of patriotism and the strength of constitutional government in this land. The American spirit, which is the only one of living space and material wealth, is a spiritual heritage—the heritage of individual freedom. And to many thoughtful citizens there seems to be reason to be troubled about the state of Big Unionism.

Certainly, patriotism is alive, it is vibrant, and in young Americans who fight so nobly for their country, even when the political leadership at home is grossly inadequate in the last 30 years by the government that is supposed to protect them.

In the early days of this century, the right to work was unimpeded. A man could take any job for which he was qualified. He did not have to seek the permission of any organization or group. Today we find a vastly different situation. In less than half the states is the right to work guaranteed by law. In the other states, a citizen is not wholly free to get a job. He must "own" the job in many industries and lines of business. An employer is not free to select his employees; he must adhere to the union's demands dictated by the union bosses. This situation is one of the biggest threats to freedom in America today.

The United States has won its might a small minority that has promoted a new kind of revolution that has nothing to do with the conservative American Revolution of 1776. This minority is bent on subverting the social order of the United States by campaigns of lawlessness, by riots in the cities, by sit-ins on the campuses, and by bully-boy tactics of the police and court officials of the law and the government.

As Americans take pride in their nation on reaching a population of 200 million, they must remember that the worth of a country's heart has always had to be proved by the actions of the living. This nation cannot live off the brave deeds of men in earlier times. Citizens of today have to stand and be counted in the faces of bureaucracy, labor totalitarianism and anarchism that would wreck the experiment in freedom by action from within. Americans of today uphold the qualitative aspects of the national life they need have no fear about the material success or security of the nation. The American Way of Life, freedom, is the vital ingredient. Its protection, as our ancestors have told us, requires eternal vigilance.

THE DEEP END

Liberty And Justice For All

When our forefathers wrote the Constitution and the Bill of Rights they did so to prevent governmental infringement on the individual and to protect the rights of the individual.

Today we are seeing a drastic change in the interpretation of these documents which are currently endangering the rights for which they were written to protect. At a time when organized crime and public insurrections are at an all time high our Supreme Court has seen fit to reach decisions that tie the hands of those entrusted with law enforcement.

The members of our Supreme Court are only human and can be expected to make mistakes, just as those members of Congress are. Of two hundred million people, perhaps we might consider a change in the system. Membership in the court is usually reserved as a political plum and not always are the candidates qualified, also there is a mandatory retirement age so that even after a member becomes senile he can continue to make decision effecting you.

Certainly a people of our nation deserve to have recourse as individuals up to and including the Supreme Court, but while they do have such recourse, there are very few that could afford to pursue it. We are slowly eroding the foundation on which this nation was founded, for we are changing the concept of rule by the majority to rule by the minority. If we continue to do this, to continue to allow decisions of the Supreme Court to go unchallenged, then we must face the possibility of national moral decadence that will eventually destroy us.
